

Calleja, Paloma

Head of Service of the Subdirectorate of Quality of Care

Nursing Graduate of Universidad Autónoma de Madrid and PhD in Health Sciences from Universidad de Alicante. For years I have worked in the field of long-term care as a case manager for complex patients, an area in which I developed my doctoral thesis. Currently, I am the coordinator of the Strategic Framework for Primary and Community Care where a reform of the Spanish primary care system is being led as a response to the crisis generated by the COVID-19 pandemic. As a result, the largest budget allocation from the Ministry of Health is being decentralised to the autonomous communities (more than 1000 million euros in 2022 and 2023).
