Li, Ann
Long Covid Europe

Ann Li is from Belgium and coordinates projects on chronic diseases in primary care. In her healthcare region, she was one of the people who coordinated the primary care reform of 2016. She has been working on integrated care and innovative ways of multidisciplinary collaboration in primary care. Since 2020 she has been a freelance editor of the scientific magazine for the Flemish professional association of general practitioners and since August 2022 has been working on the implementation of primary care psychologists in her province.

In 2020 Ann founded the Flemish Long COVID patients association. She is part of the Belgian consortium that writes the guidelines for managing Long COVID in primary care, and also part of the working group that wrote the Belgian care pathway for people with Long COVID. Ann is the patient representative in a couple of scientific research groups. Long COVID Europe was founded in the summer of 2021, and she has been the Chair from the start.
