

Schlüter, Louise

European Commission Directorate-General for Health and Food Safety

Louise is a young and engaged public health professional at European level with a focus on healthcare policies, notably in the medical device/in vitro diagnostics and pharmaceutical fields.

Louise currently works at DG SANTE, European Commission in the unit responsible for implementing the Medical Device Regulation (MDR) and In Vitro Diagnostic Regulation (IVDR) – SANTE.D3. Previous professional experience was also in the fields of European affairs and healthcare policies, both in the private and public sector (at Acumen Public Affairs and Permanent Representation of Austria to the EU respectively).

Louise studied European Public Health at Maastricht University in her Bachelor degree and European Affairs, with a specialisation in Global Health at SciencesPo Paris for her Masters degree.