

Dr Clare Leonard is English but lives and works in Zürich. After obtaining a degree and PhD in nutrition science from Surrey University Clare moved into the food industry and has worked for Unilever and Cereal Partners Worldwide before joining Kraft Foods Europe. She has worked in the food industry for over 14 years and as such has a wealth of experience applying nutrition science in the context of food production. Clare is currently the Director of Scientific and Regulatory Affairs and Nutrition for Kraft Foods Europe. She manages a team of over 60 scientists responsible for scientific and regulatory affairs and nutrition for the European business.

Clare currently sits on the European Food Information Council Board of Directors and the Board of the European Technology Platform, she Chairs the Food Drink Europe Science Committee, and is a Fellow of the Association of Nutrition in the UK. She is an active member of the Editorial Advisory Board of the British Nutrition Foundation Nutrition Bulletin.