

Borgermans, Liesbeth

University of Ghent, Belgium

Prof. Dr. Liesbeth Borgermans is a visiting Professor at the Department of Public Health and Primary Care of the University of Ghent in Belgium. Liesbeth's policy, research and practice interests cover quality of care, primary and community care, integrated care and health systems. She works as an expert-consultant for the WHO Athens Office on Quality of Care and Patient Safety, and previously worked for the Federal Ministry of Health in Belgium as well as national policy and commissioning bodies.

Liesbeth holds a bachelor's degree in nursing, a master's degree in Medical-Social Sciences and Hospital Management, and obtained the degree of Doctor in Bio-Medical Sciences from the Vrije Universiteit Brussel (Belgium).