

Bowis, John

FIPRA

John Bowis was a Member of the European Parliament (MEP) from 1999-2009 and Member of the UK Parliament from 1987-1997. He was also a UK Health Minister from 1992-1996 and subsequently international policy adviser to the WHO. At the European Parliament, he was spokesperson for the European People's Party (EPP) on environment and health, and led on a range of dossiers, including the Cross-border Healthcare Directive. John Bowis is currently a special advisor to FIPRA.

(last updated 28.09.2018)