Caulfield, Alexandra
Karolinska Institute

Dr. Caulfield currently combines clinical work in emergency medicine in London with research at Karolinska Institutet in Sweden, where she completed her MSc in Global Health. Her Master thesis centred on the field of global palliative care, specifically looking at communication of poor prognosis in a low- and middle-income countries (LMIC) setting. The project was a collaboration between Karolinska Institutet and Cape Coast Hospital, Ghana. Previously in her career, Dr. Caulfield has undertaken clinical work and research in the UK, New Zealand, Ghana, Sweden, and Peru. Her work is focused on diverse aspects of primary care, including health communication, palliative care, mental health and infectious disease.
