Daniels, Ron
Global Sepsis Alliance

Ron Daniels is an NHS Consultant in Intensive Care, based at University Hospitals Birmingham, U.K. He's also Chief Executive of the UK Sepsis Trust and Vice-President of the Global Sepsis Alliance. In 2016 he was awarded the British Empire Medal for services to patients.

Ron's expertise lies in translational medicine and leadership. He leads the team driving dissemination of the Sepsis 6 treatment pathway and is part of the team responsible for much of the policy and media engagement around sepsis in the U.K. and elsewhere, including as a core member of the team securing the adoption of the 2017 Resolution on Sepsis by the WHO.

At home, Ron's worked with the NHS over the last 7 years to ensure that, in England, more than 80% of patients presenting with suspected sepsis now receive appropriate antimicrobials rapidly. He's ever mindful of the perceived conflict, and the synergies and need for collaboration, with the antimicrobial stewardship agenda.
