

Dayan, Mark

Nuffield Trust

Mark Dayan is Brexit and Trade Programme Lead at the Nuffield Trust, working on the implications of leaving the European Union and of trade agreements for the NHS, life sciences and social care. His publications include How will Brexit affect the UK's response to coronavirus? and Getting a Brexit deal that works for the NHS. Mark has also published work on healthcare in Scotland and Northern Ireland; integrated care across the UK; health inequalities; and on legislation. He leads the Nuffield Trust's engagement with Ministers, civil servants and parliamentarians as Head of Public Affairs, and analyses and responds to legislation affecting health and social care.

Mark has also worked on external commissions, including leading a 2018 research collaboration with the King's Fund, Institute for Fiscal Studies and the Health Foundation. Before joining the Trust, Mark gained experience in policy roles for the New Local Government Network and the Scottish Civil Service. He is a graduate of the University of Oxford and has an MSc in Philosophy and Public Policy from the London School of Economics.