

delle Grazie, Judith

Austrian Federal Ministry of Health

As head of the Department for Health Promotion and Disease Prevention at the Austrian Federal Ministry of Social Affairs, Health, Care and Consumer Protection since 2006, Judith delle Grazie is responsible for Austria's "Agenda Health Promotion" with its three competence centers that were founded in 2022: "Health Promotion and Healthcare", "Climate and Health" and "Future Health Promotion". She manages participatory processes on a federal level like the strategy process "Future Health Promotion" and engages with the Austrian Health Targets. She is responsible for the Austrian Health Promotion Strategy and the funds of the Preventive Medicine Strategy within the Target-Based Health Governance area, as well as for work on health-promoting settings and topics like health impact assessment, the promotion of physical activity and oral health.