EUROPEAN HEALTH FORUM
GASTEIN

Petelos, Elena
University of Crete

Senior researcher at the University of Crete, Greece. Lecturer at Maastricht University, The Netherlands.

Public health specialist with a background in medicine, molecular biology, oncology, and evidence-based medicine. Retrained mid-career in public health, policy and health economics. An expert on Health Technology Assessment, implementation research, and foresight studies. She also has extensive experience on trial design (interventional and observational). She serves as the representative of the EFPC to HERA and as Member of the Healthcare Professionals' Working Party of the European Medicines Agency. She has a strong involvement in international and European societies and networks including those of payers and WHO relevant to health information, digital health, public health and primary care research. Deputy Scientific Coordinator.