

Elwell-Sutton, Tim

The Health Foundation

Tim Elwell-Sutton is Assistant Director of Strategic Partnerships at the Health Foundation. His work focuses on addressing the social determinants of health through mobilising action across the public, private and voluntary sectors. He is a public health professional and researcher who has worked extensively on health inequalities and non-communicable diseases in the UK and internationally, including time spent working in Nepal, Hong Kong, and China. In the UK, he has worked in local government, at Public Health England, and at the Department for International Development.

Tim is an Honorary Lecturer in Public Health at the University of East Anglia and a Fellow of the UK's Faculty of Public Health. He has a master's degree in Medical Anthropology from Oxford and a PhD in Public Health from the University of Hong Kong.
