Deutsche Stiftung Weltbevölkerung (DSW)

Ffion Storer Jones is Deputy Head of EU Advocacy for the global health NGO DSW. Working in their Brussels Office, Ffion leads the advocacy and policy portfolio on research and innovation, focused on global collaboration in areas of unmet health need, including infectious diseases, sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) and women's health. She holds a BSc in Medical Physiology, and since graduating in 2015, she has worked at the intersection of science and policy across global trade, research, food, health and development issues.
