EUROPEAN HEALTH FORUM
GASTEIN

Gorenc, Tomaž
Institute for Health and Environment (IZO)

Tomaž Gorenc is co-founder and director of the Institute for Health and Environment (IZO), a Slovenian organisation working at the intersection of public health, environment, and sustainable development. IZO holds WHO Collaborating Centre status for youth participation in health governance. Tomaž holds a PhD researching the interaction between heat stress and socio-economic and health factors. He leads a small team and a portfolio of national and international projects and is a citizen science expert with deep expertise in participatory governance, air quality, and environmental health.