Hagen, Julia
Health Innovation Hub

Prior to joining the health innovation hub, Julia Hagen was responsible for the Health & Pharma division of the digital association Bitkom, where her main focus was on the regulatory framework for digital health. When working in Paris, she first came into contact with telemedicine and connected health in the context of rural healthcare and public service delivery. She completed a Master of Public Administration at Sciences Po Paris and London School of Economics. At the health innovation hub, her focus is on the implementation of the reimbursement framework for digital health applications (DiGA).
