Oniscu, Gabriel
Edinburgh Transplant Centre, ESOT President-Elect

Gabriel Oniscu is a consultant transplant surgeon at the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh and Honorary Reader at the University of Edinburgh. His clinical focus is liver transplantation and living kidney donation. He has a particular clinical and research interest in equity of access to transplantation, shared decision making and transplant outcomes as well as implementing new organ perfusion and digital technologies in transplant care. Mr Oniscu is the recipient of the NRS Career Research Fellowship, an MRC confidence in concept award for technological developments relating to normothermic perfusion and an MRC Clinical Academic Research Partnership grant to investigate therapy delivery during ex situ liver perfusion.

Mr Oniscu is President-Elect of the European Society for Organ Transplantation and Transplant Advisor to the Chief Medical Officer in Scotland. He is also leading the working group responsible for the development of the ESOT European Registries.
