

Pana, Adrian

Center for Health Outcomes and Evaluation

I am an experienced Public Health and Health Management senior consultant physician with a sound academic and professional background in public health and health policy and management. Currently I am working as a health policy analyst, being involved in several projects focused on health system governance, accountability and transformation, value -based health care services and their outcomes, burden of diseases studies and their impact on health system, reshaping & designing new models of delivery of healthcare services, multi sectorial approaches on social determinants of health and health inequities, and evidence based policies for assessment of new health technologies. My professional background consists in over 15 years of working experience for the Romanian Government at the central level also for more than 5 years of work as a consultant in international projects on the health sector. I gained this, by working as a Secretary of State as well as a management executive in several departments for the National Health Insurance House and later on for the National Institute for Health Research and Development, the Ministry of Health, and for the Health Commission at the Romanian Parliament. During this period I had also the opportunity to be part in several projects in collaboration with international organisations (WHO, The World Bank, and the European Commission).