

Plomariti, Christina

Aristotle University of Thessaloniki

Plomariti Christina is a PhD candidate in the Medical Physics Laboratory, School of Medicine of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki in the field of neuroscience and biomedical engineering. She has a bachelor's degree in physics and a master's in medical informatics. Christina has a number of scientific publications and conference presentations in the field of biomedical engineering, space neuroscience and sleep science. She participates in EU funded projects and Joint Actions. Her research interests include, among others, integrated care, vulnerable populations and user-centered medicine.