European Federation of Allergy and Airways Diseases Patients Associations

Valeria Ramiconi is Director of Operations and Programmes at EFA, the European Federation of Allergy and Airways Diseases Patients Associations. She has been with the organisation since 2020. With more than 15 years of experience spanning international development and global health, Valeria is committed to placing the patient's perspective at the center of healthcare discussions across Europe. Her work focuses on developing patient-driven initiatives and fostering collaboration among patients, researchers, clinicians, and policymakers to ensure that patients' voice is meaningfully represented in policy, research, and healthcare decision-making.
