EUROPEAN HEALTH FORUM
GASTEIN

Shields-Zeeman, Laura
Trimbos Institute

Dr. Laura Shields-Zeeman is Head of the Department of Mental Health and Prevention at the Trimbos Institute, the Dutch national knowledge institute for mental health and addiction, and Director of the WHO Collaborating Centre for Mental Health Services and Interventions across the Life Course. She was a 2018-19 Harkness Fellow in Healthcare Policy and Practice in the United States and a Visiting Scholar at the University of California, San Francisco in the area of health system responses in addressing social determinants of health. Her main areas of interest are in public mental health, social determinants of health, and social and health policy. She has specific expertise on the development, implementation and evaluation of service delivery transformations in mental health care, in policy analysis, and in implementation science. She has been closely involved in policy development processes at the national and international level.