

Smith, Peter C

Imperial College London

Smith, Peter C. Emeritus Professor of Health Policy at Imperial College Business School. Smith is a mathematics graduate from the University of Oxford, and started his academic career in the public health department at the University of Cambridge. His main research has been in the economics of health and public finance, and he was a previous Director of the Centre for Health Economics at the University of York. Smith has acted in numerous UK governmental advisory capacities, and is currently chair of the NHS Advisory Committee on Resource Allocation. He has also advised many overseas governments and international agencies, including the World Health Organization, the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank, the European Commission and the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. He continues to research actively on economic aspects of health systems and global health.

(last updated 23.09.2016)