

Suzuki, Elina

Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development

Elina Suzuki is a Health Policy Analyst at the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), where she leads the Health Division's policy work on financialisation and on gender and health. Previously an advisor to the OECD's Director of Employment, Labour and Social Affairs, her earlier work has covered health financing, climate change, ageing and dementia, and people-centred health systems. Before joining the OECD, she was based at SEEK Development in Berlin, working with a range of organisations and international institutions on health financing and global health governance. She graduated from McGill University and holds a master's degree from the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health.