

Val, Elena

Ms. Elena Val, is a Migration Health Officer, at the International Organization for Migration (IOM), Migrant Health Division (MHD) Regional Office for EEA, EU and NATO, in Brussels, previously worked in Geneva for the World Health Organization (WHO), where she represented the International Health Regulations Secretariat (IHRs) during the Ebola Virus Disease (EVD) outbreak in West Africa. Before for three years she served in Brussels as Senior Health Policy Advisor within a project of the Italian Ministry of Health. Prior this Elena worked in Atlanta, USA, for the International Society of Travel Medicine. She holds a Master in Public Administration and Policy (MPA) with a focus in Public Health and a degree in International Relations.