Vander Stappen, Ariane
European Commission Directorate-General for Health and Food Safety

Ariane has extensive experience in food, health, and policy making, having held various positions at both national and EU level. Ariane joined the European Commission in 2006 and has since developed strong expertise in food law, nutrition, and veterinary medicines legislation. Ariane now leads the Unit on One Health and Antimicrobial Resistance in DG SANTE.

Ariane holds a degree in bio-engineering with a specialisation in chemistry and began her career working at the University of Louvain-la-Neuve in Belgium and at the Belgian Federal Agency for the Safety of the Food Chain, gaining over 10 years of hands-on experience. Based in Brussels, Ariane values living in her home city while working in an international environment.
