

Walshe, Kieran

Manchester Business School

Kieran Walshe is Professor of Health Policy and Management at the University of Manchester, and head of the health management group at Manchester Business School; he is also non-executive director of the Christie NHS Foundation Trust, and a board member of the UK Health Services Research Network. He previously worked at the University of Birmingham, at the University of California at Berkeley as a Harkness Fellow, and at the King's Fund in London. His research interests focus on quality and performance in healthcare organisations; the governance, accountability and performance of public services; research policy and innovation in health systems; and the use of evidence in policy evaluation and learning.

(last updated 28.09.2018)