EUROPEAN HEALTH FORUM
GASTEIN

Yfantopoulos, John
University of Athens

Professor John Yfantopoulos is Academic Coordinator of MBA University of Athens in Health Management, President of IPOKE research institute (www.ipoke.gr), former President of the National Centre for Social Research and Ex-president of the National Board of Public Health. He received his Doctor of Philosophy in Health Economics from the University of York, UK. Professor Yfantopoulos has extensive teaching and research experience in comparative research on health economics, health inequalities and the assessment of health reforms in Europe. He has been working and advising the European Commission, (Eurostat), the WHO, and the World Bank. He has extensive research experience with the Eurostat data sources (HBS, LFS, ECHP, SILC, EHIS) as well as with the EU Research Projects like SHARE and the ESS. He was the scientific director of the DG-SANCO project “for the measurement of health inequalities in the European Union” and a member of the Core Standing Committee for Social Science in the European Science Foundation (ESF).